FIVE-WEEKS-OLD CHILD MISSING IN CINCINNATI

Girl Is Taken by Unidentified Woman Attired As Nurse

POLICE PUZZLED, LACK THEORIES

No Ransom Motive Suspected Because Family Is Impoverished

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, June 2.—A woman, who, applying for hospital work here had represented herself as a graduate nurse, was sought by police today in their efforts to find the missing five-weeks-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. John Sneed, taken from its home early Wednesday.

Social service workers at General hospital said the woman had applied there for work several times and that she answered the description of the woman in nurse's uniform who took the baby from its home.

Gave No Details
The applicant, they said, told them she had worked at the Christ Church clinic—that from which the woman who took the child told the mother she represented.

But while saying she was a graduate nurse, they said she gave no details of her training, from what school she graduated, or where she had worked since.

Detectives, meanwhile, expressed themselves as puzzled as to the reason any one could have for taking the ailing child from its mother. No official theory was expressed that the baby might have been taken by some one impelled by the urge to be "mother" to some one, but Dr. E. A. Baber, superintendent of the Longview State hospital here, said he could conceive the possibility, but doubted its probability, when adoption of a child offered a "safe, sane and lawful" way.

"This case is full of mystery," said Detective Chief Emmett D. Kirgan. "It's hard to understand. The child was not taken for ransom because the Sneeders are very poor."

Detectives rushed to Hamilton, 30 miles away, yesterday when they heard a woman appeared with a baby at a place where she had been refused employment because she had no dependent. However, the baby was a boy.

Examines Child

A week ago a woman dressed like a nurse visited the Sneed home on the Ohio river front. She examined Pansy and left 10 cents for baby powder. She returned again Wednesday, treated an abdomen infection and told the mother she must take the child away for further treatment. After bathing and dressing Pansy, she left with the baby.

A special delivery letter later in the day told Mrs. Sneed the baby was in a serious condition and "we are taking it to the Springdale nursery for ten days." The letter was signed "Dr. MacEverett." There is no Springdale nursery. Nor have police been able to find "Dr. MacEverett."

Tot Sleeps On Running Board; Another, Tardy, Decides to Hide

CANTON, June 2.—Hereafter Alvin Miller of near Berlin will inspect his car thoroughly before starting a trip.

When Miller drove into Millersburg after a seven-mile run from his home, a pedestrian hailed him and pointed to the side of his car. Miller got out and found his two-year-old daughter stretched out sound asleep on the running board.

Mrs. Miller was near collapse today after learning of the incident.

And then there's the case of the little boy who believed in being punctual—would rather do anything than be tardy at school.

This little chap—who attends Fourth street school, left as usual this morning but felt he could not get there in time. So he came back and told his mother he didn't want to be tardy. The mother, however, advised the tot he should return to school and tell his teacher about it.

So he left again, but didn't get to school. The mother was informed and, alarmed, called the husband at work along about 10 o'clock. Both were frightened.

The police were called and a city-wide hunt began. Finally, Patrolman William Reardon discovered the errand student in an alley in the rear of an Ellisworth ave., grocery store. He'd been hiding.

CHURCH PLANS YEAR'S PROGRAM

H. W. Young Is Chairman of Baptist Trustees' Board

Plans for the year were outlined by the pastor, Rev. A. C. Westphal, at a general meeting of all boards and committees of the Baptist church Thursday evening at the church.

Harry W. Young and C. A. Older were named chairman and clerk, respectively, of the board of trustees.

The deacons elected Charles Scott chairman of their board and Richard C. Stirling was chosen clerk.

M. J. Buell was elected church treasurer and Miss Alta Whinnery financial secretary. C. B. Engel was selected treasurer of the fellowship and floral fund.

A plan of systematic visitation was arranged by the board of deacons and deaconesses, this to be carried out through the year.

The deaconesses board, made up of nine women, did not complete their work and will meet again.

The missionary committee plans a school of missions for autumn, and systematic presentation of missions through the Bible school. An Americanization committee will be appointed.

Floral and baptismal committees will be appointed after the deaconess meet again. Repairing of the heating plant was considered.

J. P. Morgan Probe

Recesses; Pecora and Davis Clash

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 2.—The senate investigation of J. P. Morgan and company was abruptly recessed for the week-end today after John W. Davis, counsel for the firm, protested against a question directed at Thomas S. Lamont, junior partner, apparently relating to his income tax return.

Davis leaped to his feet to object when Ferdinand Pecora, senate committee counsel, called young Lamont to the stand and asked him about sales of stock December 30, 1930.

"This is not fair play," Davis protested, asserting that Lamont had not been advised he would be questioned about the stocks.

While Lamont sat quietly at the table, and his senior partner—J. P. Morgan—listed intently from the background, Davis and Pecora argued the question.

Chairman Fletcher finally ruled the question was pertinent.

Girl Finds Trip to World's Fair Is Extremely Thrilling

Salem Woman's Niece Provides Interesting Description of Exposition

"Just like visiting a lot of foreign countries, going to a circus and carnival combined, getting a liberal education and being thrilled and awed beyond words."

There may have been more lengthy descriptions of the world's fair, which opened Saturday in Chicago, but, somehow, this one, by Miss Elizabeth Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson of Chicago, seems, even in its terseness, to do the work in a way that leaves little to be imagined.

Miss Anderson described in her own excellent way her visit to the fair last Saturday, in a letter to her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Dunn of South Lincoln ave. Probably no advertising circular would convey the world of information on the innumerable little things that are really interesting at the fair as this letter does.

Miss Anderson tells of the magnificent buildings, the big midway, the foreign atmosphere, the exhibits, and—well read for yourself!

The Letter
You must hurry out to Chicago right away and get to the fair! It is magnificent, lovely, enchanting—the most wonderful thing I have ever seen! I must tell you all about it.

I went down yesterday (Saturday, May 27), the opening day. In the morning there was a parade, a pageant of states and countries, a Soldiers' field and the crowning of the Queen.

Then in the afternoon the fair was in full swing. I'll tell you what everything was like. I can't begin to tell you all.

A Jaunt of 12 Miles
We arrived about 2.30 p. m. and walked the three and one-half miles of the fair on one side of the lagoon then crossed the bridge and walked the two and one-half miles on the other side. (That made a nice little jaunt of 12 miles.)

When you first go in you walk down the long avenue of flags with the Hall of Science at the end. The theme of the fair is "Science" so the Hall of Science is the largest and most magnificent of all the buildings and is the headquarters with a broadcasting station and a big court facing on the lagoon for the ceremonies.

The foreign villages were almost the most interesting to me—"The Streets of Paris" with long cobblestone streets, sidewalk cafes, wax works, marionette shows, quaint shops and gendarmes; "Old Heidelberg Inn" with a terrace overlooking the lagoon where there are plenty of tables at which to sit and watch the gay crowds and its parklike inside; the Belgian village that looks as though it had been standing for centuries, with narrow streets, fish and vegetable markets, hanging out to dry, milk carts drawn by dogs and a reproduction of a sixteenth century cathedral that takes your breath away it is so beautiful.

These are just a few of the foreign exhibits which also include an Alpine garden and an Italian restaurant and Egyptian and Japanese places.

Variety of Gardens
I know that you will like the Horticulture building—a tropical garden, a formal Italian one, a rose garden, a gay little colonial garden, a winter scene in the north woods and lakes and brooks and flowers galore. Better than any flower show you must see it! And the "Enchanted Isle." It is for children but there are so many grown-ups that the children hardly have a chance. There is a Magic Mountain, Miniature Zoo, House of Marbles, Wizard of Oz, giants, puppet shows, a theater and a little, gay tearoom and that is only half of it.

There is a pirate ship, a show boat, a whaling vessel, motor launches and gondolas on the lagoon that sing as they paddle. It is all so nice and big and too walks and bridges are so wide that you don't notice the crowds and crowds of people. The lagoons in the middle make it very nice because everything reflects in blue water in the day and at night when the thousands of colored lights reflect back and forth in the water it looks like fairy land. I stood on the bridge just when the sun was setting and could look at the brilliant-colored buildings all around the lagoon with a few lights twinkling here and there, the Chicago Symphony orchestra playing in the sound and the gondolas on the water with the gondoliers singing and a crescent moon coming up—it was a thrilling moment!

MANY AT RITES FOR DR. CHURCH

Physicians, County Officials, Others at Funeral Here

Funeral service for Dr. Thomas T. Church, 72, who died suddenly at the Cleveland Clinic last Saturday night, was held at the home, South Lincoln ave. Thursday afternoon, with persons of all walks of life paying last tributes to the veteran physician who practiced in Salem for 40 years and at the time of his passing occupied positions of city and county health commissioner.

The esteem in which Commissioner Church was held was reflected by the gathering of friends and relatives, who attended the rites. City and county physicians, co-workers of Dr. Church in local and outside health projects, members of the Salem Kiwanis club with which he was affiliated, and city and county officials all attended the services in bodies.

The county courthouse at Lisbon and municipal offices at city hall were closed during the funeral.

The service was in charge of Rev. Raymond D. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Knights Templar of the Salem Commandery of which he had served as commander from 1899 to 1901, formed an escort with past commanders as pallbearers. The Knights conducted a short Masonic service at the grave in Grandview cemetery.

Among those attending the services were William S. Church of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Rachel Martin of near Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Brook Church of Girard and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Berg of Leontia.

STANKOVITCH, COY FREED IN JURY'S VERDICT

Pair Are Tried In Death of Harry Soule Near T. E. Votaw Home

EACH FINED $200 ON LIQUOR COUNT

Court's Decision on Latter Charge Follows Finding By Jury

BULLETIN
Verdicts declaring both Merel D. Coy and George Stankovitch of Salem not guilty were returned by the jury in common pleas court, Lisbon, at 2:23 this afternoon.

They were indicted on charges of manslaughter in the death of Harry Soule, New Germantown, Pa., Jan. 8 on Route 35, south of Salem.

Judge Lones, at the completion of the manslaughter hearing, pronounced both youths guilty on indictments charging them with transportation of intoxicating liquors, fining each $200 and costs.

They were committed to the county jail pending payment of fines and costs. Hearings on the liquor indictments were held before Judge Lones Monday.

The case of Merel D. Coy and George Stankovitch, Salem youths charged with manslaughter in the death of a retired New Germantown, Pa., mail carrier on January 8 in a highway mishap south of Salem, was submitted to a jury of seven men and five women in common pleas court, Lisbon, at 1:30 p. m. today.

The jury received the case after a 40-minute charge by Judge W. F. Lones which followed closing arguments by George Lafferty and Frank W. Springer, representing the state, and Cecil K. Scott, counsel for the defendants.

Defendants On Stand

Coy and Stankovitch were placed on the witness stand in their own defense this morning with the former admitting that he was the driver of the automobile which struck and killed Harry D. Soule, 72, while he was walking along State Route 35, near the home of T. E. Votaw, south of Salem, with whom he was visiting.

Coy, questioned by Atty Scott, denied that he was driving at an excessive rate of speed as charged by the state and told the jury that he and Stankovitch were proceeding along the highway when he saw a man crossing the road from the left to the right side.

The man, he said, proceeded across to the other side, then suddenly retraced his steps and began recrossing the highway, walking to the left side again, according to Coy. Coy testified that he then "became confused," his machine suddenly striking the man who, Coy said, also appeared "befuddled."

Coy's testimony was substantiated by Stankovitch on the latter's appearance on the witness stand, after which the defense rested.

The state had rested its case against the defendants at 11:45 a. m. yesterday after calling 17 witnesses to the stand.

Keep Indictments Separate

Judge Lones, in his charge to jurors, admonished them to do all in their power to "reach a right and just decision" and explained that, before reaching a verdict, they should determine whether the accident occurred while the "defendants were in the act of violating a valid statute."

The court ruled, however, that the indictment charging the youths with unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquors, should not be brought into their consideration of the manslaughter charge. Judge Lones said the manslaughter case should be based on "whether or not the defendants were driving their automobile beyond a reasonable and proper rate of speed."

Both Stankovitch and Coy were charged with transportation of liquor when whiskey and gin were found in the machine, abandoned by them after the mishap.

Better News

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. June 2.—"Farm prices have advanced 14 per cent in the last month." Now that's better news than a speech on "good relations" by Mussolini and Hitler combined.

Our new ambassador to England, also, related over the Prince of Wales introducing him that he turned over American to England to be used as they saw fit. It takes a strong man to remember what country he is representing when the wine and the flattery start flowing.

If the Republicans ever decide to enter another presidential candidate, they better hire Pecora to run for 'em. He is the best bet I see right now.

A TRIPLE LOSS

His friends and his city yesterday paid their final respects to Dr. Thomas Teasdale Church, health commissioner for both Salem and Columbiana county, a zealous worker in the cause of health, a credit to the medical profession and a credit to the community of which he was a member.

These are not shallow words. Dr. Church was a beloved character. His friends were legion. To the performance of the duties of his offices as health commissioner for both the city and the county, he was religiously devoted.

The passing of Dr. Church removed the third of a group of standing figures whose names were so long associated with the City of Salem and to its everlasting honor.

Within recent weeks, the city has mourned the deaths of former Probate Judge George Addams of Cleveland and Atty William Campbell Boyle, also of Cleveland.

The two latter arose to positions of prominence in the legal circles of a large city.

Dr. Church remained to administer to the needs of the people of his own community.

But whatever the difference in the spheres of their operation they have proved themselves worthy to their professions and their fellowmen, and certainly have established themselves as examples for a younger generation.

CYCLONE CELLAR

The Morgan investigation and congressional discomfiture over producing revenue to finance the industrial recovery bill have placed a problem of long standing squarely before the people. Can income from "tax exempt" securities be taxed?

The answer is an emphatic "Yes." Such securities can be taxed. But whether or not they will be taxed is another matter entirely, for years there have been attempts to close up this cyclone cellar in which tax evaders habitually take refuge.

There have been no results. It is estimated that there are now more than $38,500,000,000 worth of securities outstanding which are exempt from normal income tax or surtaxes or both. There are government securities, wholly tax exempt; federal farm loan system bonds and territorial securities, wholly tax exempt; state, county and municipal securities, wholly tax exempt; and government bonds, exempt from normal income tax. If they could be taxed, revenue to the amount of $300,000,000 might be obtained.

The Morgan investigation, showing how one group of wealthy men protected their interests by taking refuge in the tax-exempt cyclone cellar, was not needed to show how the system works. Its secrets have been known for years. But nothing could be done about reforming it. Present probability of a higher income tax, however, has excited taxpayers who enjoy no protection to a point where something may have to be done about it before any more income tax can be collected.

One body of opinion holds that no constitutional amendment is necessary to get at this source of revenue, particularly if the supreme court upholds the constitutionality of the gold payment clauses in existing securities. The way to proceed is for congress to authorize the tax and let the court, whose decisions are the basis of existing exemptions, hold the bag. It would encounter real difficulty sustaining what has become a threatening practice.

This problem, which has hung fire for many years, could be settled now by definite action. Congressmen should not need to be told that holders of taxable securities expect something to be done before they are penalized further for investing their money in productive enterprises.

MICAWBER, THE REALIST

When Charles Dickens sketched the figure of Mr. Micawber for a grateful posterity he didn't intend to give it heroic proportions. Yet, it is worth noting that the ineffectual but optimistic fellow has had his moments. He is having one of them now in at least four important capitals of the world.

"Waiting for something to turn up" probably is the best available policy for dealing with war debts. At least, it is the most expedient one. One may scan the field for a better possibility without success. Micawberism, by a twist of circumstances, has been converted temporarily into realism.

It is obvious that the debt problem cannot be solved or erased before the 15th of this month when installments are due. It should be equally obvious, even to hard-nosed congressmen, that if the debtors are permitted to default on the 15th the party is over. The choice lies between waiting for something to turn up and concluding that nothing can turn up.

If the payments are postponed, the evil day will be put off until December again. It is doubtful that Micawberism would work a second time, but who knows what may happen between now and then? Delegates are assembling in London for the express purpose of making something turn up. The administration is busily striving to make something turn up. With charity, it might even be said that the debtors are trying to do something.

If it were easy to arrange solutions as it is to figure them out, something like this might be done. As manifestations of good intentions and as a frankly given sop to the American taxpayer, each debtor nation would make a nominal payment on its obligation. Thus, the transaction could be held open until the end of the year, at which time circumstances might permit definite agreement on a revision of the debts which would be acceptable to all parties concerned. Mr. Micawber would do it that way, and Mr. Micawber was no fool when he found himself helpless in the clutch of adversity.

What Others Say

TRAINS AT 90 MILES AN HOUR

If a train can be run on a railroad at a sustained speed of 90 miles an hour it should be a powerful aid in meeting the competition of the motor bus. The Union Pacific railroad is building such a train. It will be capable of attaining an occasional speed of 110 miles an hour. If it averages 90 miles between towns and cities, it will distance the bus and become a real competitor of the airplane for short trips.

But 90 miles an hour will not help the railroad much in its race with the airplane as it is used over long distances of 90 miles an hour is merely loading speed in the reaches of the air. Planes regularly run at speeds up to 150 miles or more. Their present capacity is destined to be increased. There is a growing public eager to save time in the longer journeys by taking to the air. The Union Pacific train will be motor driven. It will consist of three light cars joined together, each connected with a car with a car being made over a single truck. It is spoken of as a hinged train, which would seem to be an accurate description. The cars will be tubular in shape with shatter-proof glass in the windows and will be streamlined. The train will not weigh more than a single Pullman sleeping car, but it is explained that the reduction in weight will increase the factor of safety.

Whether or not the new equipment measures up to expectations when it is put into service, it represents a commendable spirit on the part of the railroad management. There is an awakening to the fact that railroad equipment of the familiar pattern does not fit into the modern scheme. Much may be said in favor of shorter trains run at frequent intervals and at high speeds. There may be a great opportunity for the motor as a substitute for the iron horse. It is a case of adjusting twentieth century railroads to twentieth century speeds—Boston Transcript.

The Stars Say:

For Saturday, June 3.
A very auspicious chain of events may be looked for on this day, judging by the lunar as well as mutual aspects of the planets. There is likely to be a definite sign of progress and preferment from those in high places, particularly in employment.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a very lively and interesting week with favors, preferment, promotion or popularity with those in high places. But restrain tendencies to extravagance, rash speculation and personal indulgences—which might tax the finances too severely, or bring disappointment. A child born on this day may be ambitious, enterprising and aggressive in business, also popular, influential and fond of pleasure in its private life.

jacket, while she is invariably in smart evening frock and fluttering with shoulder orchids. To heighten the contrast young Watts features collars of Prussian blue. He came out of West Virginia's aristocratic old capital, Charleston, to New York, and his devotion to his pattern of neglect.

The Strollers, an organization of amateur players which recently disbanded, was one of best examples of one-man clubs. Robert Cornell Sands, who passed on last year, was its genius and embodiment and when he departed the club's dissolution was immediate. The Coffee House is also a one-man organization, being almost entirely composed of friends and acquaintances of the deservedly celebrated bon vivant, Frank Crowninshield. And how many notice his resemblance to Count Boni?

Lillian Gish, by the way, provided a melancholy evening in "No. 9 Pine Street," a study of frozen New England conscience. It was a dramatization of the famous ave murders of the mauve decade—the killings in the Borden family. Miss Gish did fairly well by a poor piece. And made a stage door John of the slinked George Jean Nathan on her opening night.

There is not—and likely never will be—another private office flowering into the Babylonish magnificence of that occupied by Roxy at Radio City. Two floors high, hung entirely with sweeps of black with silver lighting fixtures and a carpet so thick it suggests snowshoes, it cascades a bewildering splendor for the visitor. The private dining room, gushed in artificial sunshine, will accommodate 25 in a pinch, and is usually filled at luncheon.

For some time I've been tearing around bellowing about the realism of the train noises in the play "20th Century." At breakfast today, after lathering into another enthusiasm, I was told coldly that it was all done by a gramophone back stage—a recording of the actual noises of the express thundering into Grand Central. My enthusiasm deflated into a meek "Oh!" Just about the time I recover from one paragon blunder I have to go into hiding again. See you Christians!

DEALING WITH CRIME
GOLD NONSENSE

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright 1933 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

INFORMATION that indicates a depression "fade-out" comes from friends in Dayton and Detroit, by wire.

From Dayton, James W. Irwin wires that the Frisclair Corporation, branch of General Motors, has orders for June that will exceed the total of any 30-day period in the company's history. E. G. Biecher, general manager, gives out the figures.

Most important, 10,000 men, greatest number since 1929, are working full time in the company's two Dayton plants, and the new manufacturing is to fill orders, not to create stock.

H. G. Mook of Walter Chrysler's organization telegraphs from Detroit that Chrysler's Plymouth car has broken its records for production and employment, turning out 20,000 cars during the month of May. This means that Walter Chrysler continues to be a person of considerable energy.

THE "JUNIOR CRUSADERS," a youthful law and order organization, invite you to a mass meeting at Carnegie hall in New York this evening. Dr. Mather A. Abbott, head master of Lawrenceville school, and another distinguished guest will talk about modern crime, racketeering and other evils fostered by bootlegging—a product of prohibition.

Since it has been made apparent that the full-grown men of the United States cannot or will not do anything about the crime wave, it is, doubtless, a good idea to arouse interest in the next generation, hoping that it may do something.

Dealing with the crime of today ought, however, be the work of full-grown men of today.

THE New York State Chamber of Commerce urges President Roosevelt to stay on the gold basis, saying:

"Recovery hinges on our stand against inflation."

Where has there been any inflation? Have you, gentle reader, found the dollar unusually accessible?

Has not the country been on the gold basis through four solid years of depression? What good did that do this country?

Are not the most ardent friends of an American gold basis those foreigners whose cheap money has helped them, while a dear United States dollar has hurt us?

Much nonsense is talked about gold.

FOR a change from dry news read an inside story of modern conditions in America, printed by Mr. Tosuke Yamasaki on the English language editorial page of Kashi Mainichi, otherwise The Japan-California Daily News, published in Los Angeles. If it occurs to you that Mr. Yamasaki's English is not literally perfect, ask yourself how long it would take you to learn to write Japanese as well as he writes English.

Causes of Chorea Still Mystery

Recently I visited a home in which a small boy was the center of household attraction. He was a good looking youngster, well developed, but very pale and restless. The child was irritable and gave every evidence of chorea, yet his parents did not dream he was suffering from any ailment.

"Chorea," or "Saint Vitus' Dance," as it is more frequently called, is a common disease of childhood. It usually afflicts children between the fifth and fifteenth years, girls being more susceptible to this ailment than boys. It is more common among the poor than the rich.

The Symptoms

Chorea is a serious disease if neglected. Unfortunately, the affliction is often overlooked in children because there is no complaint of pain. The disease is to be suspected when a child appears to fidget and to be clumsy in his movements. As the disease progresses, suspicion is further aroused if the child exhibits difficulty in picking up objects and in walking.

Let me assure you that this disease is neither contagious nor hereditary. But early recognition of chorea in children is of great importance. When the disease is recognized in its early stages and proper measures are taken, the child's health can be completely restored. Likewise the dreaded complications, such as heart disease, can be prevented.

Like rheumatic fever, involvement of the heart is a feared complication of chorea. Neglected chorea and heart disease may result in a permanent defect which will interfere with the future health of the child.

Restless, Irritable Children

Though the actual cause of chorea has never been discovered, it is probable that it is due to a germ or to bacteria. For this reason it is important that diseased tonsils, adenoids, sinuses and defective teeth be removed.

The child should be kept in bed. This is sometimes a difficult ordeal, but it is now definitely known that great benefit is derived from prolonged rest. The sufferer from chorea should be kept in bed for at least two to three months. Meals should be served to the child in bed and every effort should be made to avoid exciting and stimulating games.

kissing my boss, my best friend, just to keep her job. Stunned and stung, but just to keep earning my buck, I was forced by sheer politeness to say nothing. I hurried and told an acquaintance of mine; he laughed and said that he would be careful—and now his former mate is the boss's wife.

"Indeed, we live in a world of amazement, debauchery, trickery and broken confidence, in which the masses of the highest to the lowest orders are completely subdued and exploited by con-men and con-games."

ulating games. Bear in mind that mental and physical excitement is harmful to these little patients.

Of course the victim of chorea should be under the personal supervision of a physician. He and only he is in a position to prescribe the necessary medicine, the proper diet, care and attention.

Do not disregard signs of restlessness and irritability in a child. Often the child suffering from chorea is backward in his school work, careless, and has periods of loss of memory. If you suspect chorea consult with your doctor.

Within recent years chorea has been associated with rheumatic fever. It frequently follows an attack of acute rheumatic fever. Much research work is being conducted all over the world in an effort to solve this affliction. Until the causes of rheumatic fever and chorea are discovered, prevention is impossible. Proper care lessens the seriousness of the disease.

GOLD BEACH, Ore. — Twenty years of fruitless labor failed to shake John Smith's faith in his gold mine. Working alone, he drilled a tunnel 90 feet into the side of a mountain, following an elusive vein that at times bore traces of metal, while his friends wandered from claim to claim seeking pay dirt. The other day John R. Smith came to town with two pounds five ounces of fine gold he recovered in less than three days.

LEGISLATURE HIGHLIGHTS

Thumbnail sketch of activities in the legislature.

There will be no more bills to extend terms of county officials. Such legislation was held unconstitutional by Attorney General Bricker.

As a result Governor White probably will veto a bill to extend the terms of county clerks and support a movement to repeal a similar measure affecting county recorders. The latter has been signed by the executive.

Another development in the term-extender hullabaloo came yesterday when the house voted 79-45 to reinstate George E. Weidlich, house reading clerk. He had been suspended pending investigation of charges he had lobbied for such legislation.

The tax problem remains unsolved with Governor White still urging the sales levy and opponents working on a substitute program. Meanwhile some leaders are backing a movement to kill pending legislation on June 8, the date fixed tentatively for final adjournment. This would permit the law-makers to devote all their time to taxation, schools and the budget.

A house committee is re-writing the administration school bill which drew much opposition because of the wide powers it would have given the state superintendent of education.

A second vote on the re-drafted horse race betting bill was planned in the senate today. It was defeated as an emergency measure yesterday. The senate also rejected the bill to legalize betting at dog races.

A bill to appropriate approximately $60,000 to meet legislative expenses was passed by the senate as was a measure to reduce the allowance for common pleas judges assigned to courts outside their own counties. The latter bill now goes to the governor.

The senate passed and sent to the executive a bill to authorize local taxing districts to reallocate various funds without specific legislative approval.

Both the house and the senate have adopted a resolution asking congress to investigate the interstate commerce commission's decision invalidating Ohio's reduced interstate coal freight rates.

Accountants have been employed to investigate the status of state funds. The inquiry was authorized by the senate with a view to determining how much revenue is needed.

The $40,000,000 biennial budget bill was completed last night by the house finance committee. It will be sent to the house next week.

The governor and other officials would be authorized to reorganize the state government under a bill recommended for passage by the senate judiciary committee.

Passage of the Lloyd bill to permit installment payments of real estate taxes was recommended by the senate taxation committee.

Will Face Mayor

Facing charges of resisting an officer following their arrest by Patrolmen Honer Veon, Nerr Gaunt and Edward Piller last night, Paul V. Blackburn of Cleveland, and H. A. Conner were freed on bond of $150 pending a hearing before Mayor J. M. Davidson Monday.

NEW ORLEANS—Louisiana's farm income declined 60 per cent during the past four years, according to a report issued by Lionel L. Jones, Department of Agriculture statistician. The decrease amounted to $88,961,000 from 1929 to 1932. The cash income from crops and livestock for 1929 amounted to $148,981,000, compared to $60,020,000 in 1932. The decline for the whole United States was about 59 per cent in cash income, Jones reported.

STOCKHOLM—Emigration from Sweden has dwindled to almost nothing in April only 40 per sons, 20 men and 20 women, left through the main ports of Stockholm, Gothenburg and Malmö. This compares to 43 in 1932, 65 in 1931, 407 in 1930, and 1,632 in 1929.

DEATHS

ROBERT ZELLER
Robert Zeller, 45, died at 4:30 a. m. Friday at Lisbon. He had been ill for seven years.
Besides his widow he is survived by four children: Mrs. Louise Daugherty, Arnold, Catherine and Virginia Zeller all of Salem; his mother, Mrs. Catherine Yennie, North Georgetown; two brothers, Ernest Zeller, Zanesville, and Godfrey Zeller, Delroy. Mr. Zeller was a life resident of Salem.
The funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Stark Memorial, East State st. Interment will be at East Beech cemetery.
Friends may call at Stark's Saturday evening.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The depression also has injured the stunt industry. Hugh Thomasson, Kentucky parachute jumper, made a "death defying leap" of 3,000 feet from an airplane and plunged 2,000 feet down before opening his chute. Strong men gasped and women swooned, but the collection that Thomasson took afterward netted him not more than $5.

FINDS TRIP TO FAIR THRILLING

About the nicest things are the beer gardens and sidewalk cafes with which the fair seems to abound. They are all along the lagoon and one can sit and have tea or beer and watch the people and look at the buildings and the water and listen to the music. It is quite exciting and very foreign being served by a buxom, flaxen-pigtailed maiden in Old Heidelberg beer garden. The lake greases keep it delightfully cool and there is always the smell of the sea in the air (when you are not in the zoo).
There are, of course, just buildings and buildings full of countless scientific, chemical, electrical and mechanical exhibits but I'm afraid I must say that they didn't interest me quite as much as the more romantic things like the flower gardens, foreign villages, enchanted isle, music, book nooks, and marionette shows (a real, frenchy one). There are buildings for the General Motors (in which I made a car while you watch from beginning to end and show you a swell, free movie). The Chrysler building is also magnificent. The Travel and Transport building (with the breath-taking dome), full of old engines, wagons and the last word in pullman comfort; Radio building and Electricity exhibit that is weird to say the least.

In the Home Planning group there is a house of each material—one of brick, of glass, cement, steel, wood, etc. And also little rooms, all interiors decorated, you know, like they have at Fields.

Then of course there is the Midway, bigger and better than any circus or carnival that I ever attended. Midgets and side shows by the ton.

"Thousands of Things"
There are a couple thousand of things that I can't take the time or finger exercise to tell you about but you must come and see for yourself. And, if I ever get to Salem I shall surely tell you all about it. I've only mentioned the few things that interested and thrilled me for my first seven hours at the fair—we left at 10 p. m. and took a bus that had seats on top to go over to the parking space and all along Michigan boulevard we could see the splendid lights of the fair and the Buckingham fountain in the middle of Grant Park going full force and lighted with colored lights. If anyone is in doubt whether or not to come to the fair be sure and tell them that it is more than worth it. It is like visiting a lot of strange countries, going to a circus and carnival combined, getting a liberal education and being thrilled and awed beyond words.

Oh! I almost forgot the Chinese temple, a gorgeous display of gold, red lacquer and antique carvings brought in 78,000 pieces and set up at the fair. And if all that isn't enough there are the field museum, the planetarium, the aquarium, and the art institute where they have brought a lot of famous pictures for exhibit.
And the Pubic cafe and night club—Ben Bernie, Guy Lombardo, Buddy Rogers and a "bevy of 30

Where Society Flier Died

Volunteer workers are shown as they labored to recover the body of J. Oliver Beebe (inset), prominent society student flier, of Boston, Mass., from the wreckage of his plane, after it had crashed into a marsh outside East Boston Airport. Beebe, who was 38, was the father of two children, who were waiting for their dad at the airport.

LISBON SCHOOLS RETAIN KEPNER

Principals, Teachers Re-elected; Salary Figures Not Set Yet

LISBON, June 2.—Lee D. Kepner was re-elected superintendent of Lisbon public schools at a meeting of the board of education here Thursday night.

The board also re-elected principals and teachers of the high school, junior high and two grade schools. Phillip Biele was again named as high school physical director and athletic coach.

Sadie P. VanFossan was reappointed high school principal with Maude P. Steele and C. A. White renamed principals of McKinley and Lincoln schools, respectively.

Full High School Vacancy
Dorothy Deemer, who graduated last month from Ohio Wesleyan university, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Deemer of Lisbon, was elected home economics teacher at the high school to succeed Margaret Garmon, resigned.

Hoping to operate schools for a full nine-month term, board members made elections of instructors on a month-to-month basis, no definite salaries having been fixed as yet. Salary figures will probably be fixed at the June meeting.

The complete list of teachers follows:

High School

McKinley School
Maude P. Steele, principal; Emily Albrecht, Mrs. Aubrey Blockson, Helen Crook, Alice Marsden, Nettie McPherson, Doris Johnson, Grace Todd, Della Wetzel.

Lincoln
C. A. White, principal; Eva Armstrong, Della Armstrong, Anna Everett, Florence Frederick, Esther LeMoore, Victoria Munten, Helen Richardson, Helen Trunk and Helen Gilbert.

You Can Put Your Hand Between the Moving Rolls of this Wringer

Ten Exclusive Features

- 1 Perfect Safety. Due to exclusive patented design, a wringer accident is virtually impossible. It is not necessary to strike any safety lever—the release works automatically to prevent harm to person or garments.
- 2 Automatic Overload Release. In case of an excess load the rolls automatically part, avoiding possibility of damage or jamming the wringer.
- 3 Double Wring. Removes 3 More Soap. In the first, gentle wringing most of the soap is removed. Passing the clothes are thoroughly through the second set of rolls "pressure cleaned."
- 4 No Reverse Lever. It is never necessary to change the direction in which rolls are operating — although clothes may be fed from either side.
- 5 Water Always Drains Correctly. Shutter and drain-flume are interlocking; water always drains back to correct tub.
- 6 Double Life, to Rolls. Because of the manner in which the four rolls operate their length of service is actually doubled.
- 7 No Wrap Around Nuisance. Ingeniously placed metal plates prevent handkerchiefs and other sheer articles from wrapping around the rolls.
- 8 Complete Visibility. Because of its compact design and lower position relative to the tub—and because clothes come out at top.
- 9 Can Be Operated Blindfolded. An indication of the unflinching operation and automatic safety of the wringer.
- 10 No Need to Worry or Exercise Care. Wringing with the Horton Auto-Safe is a simple pleasant operation accomplished in comfortable relaxation, without nervous tension or fear.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—The Rev. C. Leslie Glenn, rector of Christ Church, Episcopal, has instructed the bellringer to play the 13-bell chime from 9:15 to 9:30 a. m. instead of 9:00 to 9:30 a. m. Sundays, as in the past. This will give Harvard Square residents an additional 15 minutes of sleep, he pointed out. Some protests had been raised against the chiming.

Fine Cast of Comedy Stars In Today's Feature at State

Here comes the bride—'tis the month of June you know—a glance at the blushing bride and we see it is Zasu Pitts and another glance at the awkward and excited groom and lo and behold we see Slim Summerville....

This is the picture present at the State theater today and Saturday where "They Just Had To Get Married" is playing....

Grand Cast of Funsters

And for more attraction there is the supporting cast which includes such comedy stars as these: Roland Young, Fifi D'Orsay, Verree Teasdale, C. Aubrey Smith (he was the prime minister in "Adorable") Henry Armetta, and little Cora Sue Collins....

This is the tale of two faithful servants who are left the entire fortune of their dead master, "Uncle Henry".... As much or even more surprised than the relatives who poured into the estate as the will was being read, the two can scarcely believe their ears....

Trying for the sake of the thing and to make a fine "self sacrifice" impression on their friends, the relatives plan an expensive and beautiful wedding for the two who have been engaged for some time.... After the wedding Sam and Molly have quite a time trying to become acquainted with their new wealth and acquired social standing....

Complications Arise

Quarrels arise and they each threaten divorce but always make up.... "Uncle Henry's" relatives are always very much in evidence and of course are present at the house party given by Sam and Molly.... Lola Montrose, one of the guests, carries on a rather noticeable flirtation with Sam.... The awkward groom only makes things worse when he tries explanations with Molly and she plans an immediate divorce....

The story Molly has made up for the court would convince any jury and she is granted the decree....

THE DAY IN SPORTS

PERRONI VERSUS RISCO
PATSY SET FOR JAWN?

PATSY PERRONI, Canton and Cleveland lightweight, will battle Cleveland's famed "rubber man", Jawn Risco, in the feature ten-round argument of a fistie show at the municipal stadium of the Cuyahoga county center on June 15. The melee is being built up as a grudge affair between the two maulers and a goodly throng of ring addicts, including many from your own home town, should be among those present.

Because Patsy has hurled challenge after challenge at the rubber man who continually and consistently ignored them by telling Pat to "go get yourself a reputation" and because, after Perroni did grab himself that "rep", then accused Jawn of being scared of him, this should be a good battle, Johnnie, very likely, let his anger get away from him when he finally signed for the battle; he hasn't any part of the Canton product and, Clevelanders say, if Patsy hadn't finally gotten him so angry he didn't know where to turn, he wouldn't have signed for the argument.

Jawn has seen his best days in the ring but can still go the limit with the nation's heavyweight top-notchers. He's only been kayoed once, then by a camp Maxie Schmeling, and, according to Jawn, by accident on that occasion. He had Maxie, to hear Risco tell it, on the go and was beating him badly when all at once the Deutscher saw an opening the careless and cocky Jawn had permitted and sent through his first and last hard wallop of the evening. The fans went home early.

TO RISCO goes our award as one of the country's leading in-and-outers. First, naturally enough, comes Champ Jack Sharkey, but not far behind comes Risco. The Cleveland on occasions has looked good enough to lick old John L.—take for instance his last victory over The Mick Walker—then the next time couldn't even have licked your writer. It all depends on which of these moods he'll be in on June 8.

If he's at his best Jawn should have a decided edge on Patsy. In fact, he should win, for while Perroni is a dandy with the mitts he hasn't matured sufficiently, in years and the ring, to do battle with the rubber man. Perroni has been going great, has beat some guys that were ranked pretty high, but as yet he hasn't met a Johnnie Risco.

Perroni's best opponent was Light Heavy Champ Maxie Rosenbloom, the handsome dancer whom he battled in Canton a couple of years ago. Patsy put up a good argument, it was a fairly interesting fight, but Maxie had it over him like the proverbial tent. It's one of the few defeats chalked up against the Patsy.

And, speaking of fighting, Mr. H. E. Zeppeneck of the American Legion is considering another fight card for this month, probably on a Saturday night. Those fans who stayed away from the last show—one of the best ever held here—should start figuring on seeing this one. Carmon Barth, if he recuperates from his absconded ear, may be the headliner.

Want to see a good ball club in action?.... take a run out to Lake Placidia some Sunday.... and man, please, buy a ticket for that benefit baseball game at Centennial park next Sunday.... it'll be a good ball game and you'll be doing someone a real good turn....

The following "knotty problem" comes from Art Murray of Wooster who requests from your scribe his opinion. We coincide with Umpire Eddie Howell of Sebring, that the runner should be out.

"The following baseball problem resulted from a play which happened in the Wooster-Kent baseball game a few days ago.

"A Wooster player hit a homerun to centerfield. In going around the bases the batter failed to touch first base and third base.

"When the ball was thrown back into the infield, Kent players held the ball on third base and Umpire Eddie Howell, of Sebring, ruled the batter out.

Now comes the baseball problem. Suppose the Wooster batter, who was sitting on the Wooster bench along first base line while Kent was relayed the ball to third, had run down to first base where no play was being made. Would he have been safe at first?

Or must he touch the bases in the reverse order to get back to first? Or since he has never touched first at all, does it make any difference that he had run around the other bases?

Umpire Howell, when asked for a ruling later, declared that he would have called the batter out, would not have allowed him to be safe at first, ruling that he must touch the bases in the reverse order.

What do you think is the correct ruling?

Hardware Defeats Legion Team, 10-9 In Wild Loop Tilt

The Salem Hardware hurled the American Legion out of running for the Class A league championship, defeating the Legion tilters, 10-9, in another one of those wild battles marked by many midplays at Centennial park Thursday night.

In another contest, almost as equally wild and poorly played as the nightcap, the Calkins Chicks advanced into undisputed possession of second place in the league by gaining a last-inning 10-9 verdict over the Salem China team.

The Hardware was forced into two extra innings before the final outcome was determined. A total of 15 errors were made by the two teams.

Ten errors marred the first game in which the Chicks came back to win after they trailed, 9-5, up until the sixth frame then tallied twice to win out in the seventh.

Wants Purses for Fighters Reduced

(By Associated Press)
DETROIT, June 2.—James H. (Bingo) Brown, president of the National Boxing association, believes it's time for boxers and managers to scale down their demands for high guarantees and "give the public a break".

Otherwise he said, "I predict the amateurs will drive the professionals into the Atlantic on one side and the Pacific on the other."

Asserting that the days of high priced seats are past, he suggested a standard of 37 1-2 per cent for the defender and 12 1-2 for the challenger in all championship bouts.

HARDBALL TEAM PLANNED HERE; LIST PLAYERS

Strong Team Being Organized by Joe Kelly; Practice Sunday

Organization of the first hardball team to represent Salem in several years is being planned by Joe M. Kelley who today issued a call for players to report for a practice session at Centennial park field Sunday morning.

A strong aggregation is being assembled by Kelley who plans to arrange a series of games, both at home and on foreign diamonds, for the squad. The first game may be played on Sunday, June 11.

Youngsters To Play
Kelley is also organizing youngsters of the city in preparations for the selection of a hardball nine to compete in the county American Legion league this year. East Palestine, East Liverpool, Leetonia and Salem are entered in the circuit.

A large, silver loving cup, donated by the county 40 and 8 club, will be awarded the winner of the county title.

The city is being organized into four districts, North, East, South and West with a member of Charles H. Carey post No. 56 in charge of each section. Teams will be selected by the legionnaires and, if possible, games will be played between the four rivals.

The best 16 players will be picked by Kelley from the four aggregations to represent the Legion in the league.

Banish Fear of Blow-Outs with this new 3-times-safer tire

HERE'S real news! You can get the blow-out protection of this "3-times-safer tire" FREE. We refuse to charge one penny extra for this remarkable Life-Saver Golden Ply invention.

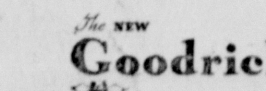

Today's high speeds generate terrific heat inside your tires. This causes rubber and fabric to separate. A blister starts... and grows... bigger and bigger... until BANG! A blow-out! And you're headed for trouble... or worse!

Don't think that slower driving can save you from blow-outs, either. Sustained speeds—on longer trips—as low as 35 or 40 miles per hour can generate terrific heat, too. Don't take chances. That blister... that blow-out in the making... may be in your tire right now!

The new Goodrich Silvertown, with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, prevents this... makes you 3 times safer from blow-outs at high speeds. Come in and let us show you this remarkable tire. Remember it costs not a penny more than any other standard tire.

Solons Back to First Love

Despite depressions, conferences about this and that and investigations, the annual baseball game between Democratic and Republican Representatives in Congress must go on as usual. There seems to be a difference of opinion as to the correct method of hurling a ball between Rep. E. A. Kelley (left), of Illinois, and Rep. James Mead of New York. Democratic stalwarts, shown at practice. Both are ex-professional diamondcutters.

YOUNG HURLERS PROVE BIGGEST AID TO TIGERS

Rowe Pitches Detroiters To Win Over Chisox; Bridges Ranks High

(By Associated Press)
Detroit's chances of getting out of second division look mighty slim but as long as they can pin their faith on Tommy Bridges and Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, the Tigers are hard to beat.

Rowe Beats Lyons

Bridges already has two one-hit games to his credit this season while Rowe, the big 21-year-old "freshman" right hander, now appears to be living up to the training camp ballyhoo. He put it over the veteran Ted Lyons and the slugging White Sox yesterday to win 3-1 and bring his mound record up even with three victories and three defeats.

He gave only five singles, fanned five and pitched shutout ball after the first inning.

Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's ace, came through with a three hit game to give the fourth-place Indians a 3 to 1 triumph over the Browns and increase their margin over the White Sox to 1½ games.

The last place Red Sox, blanked by Bill McAfee, for six innings, rose up in the eighth to score four times, and tie the count, then added two more runs off Al Thomas in the thirteenth to beat Washington 7-5. The Yankees and Athletics had an open date.

Cards Beat Cubs

The Cardinals climaxed an almost uninterrupted climb from seventh place in the National to first with a 6-1 victory over the Cubs.

The Giants continued their unbroken string of victories over the Phillies by winning 7-2.

Cold weather forced postponement of the Brooklyn-Boston double header and Pittsburgh and Cincinnati were idle.

Levinisky To Meet Griffiths Tonight

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 2.—King Levinisky, identified ex-fish peddler, will attempt to test his knockout punch on the chin of Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City, Iowa, heavyweight, in a ten-round battle opening the outdoor boxing season tonight.

The contest involves the bitterest ring feud that has developed in Chicago since boxing was legalized seven years ago. Two years ago Griffiths, then at the peak of his career, gave Levinisky, then a novice, a boxing lesson and took down a purse of $25,000.

Otterbein Ahead

WESTERVILLE, June 2.—Otterbein trimmed Capital University 8 to 7 in the 11th inning as Sampson hit a double to score Schenk. Capital had tied the score 7-all in the ninth when J. Schick slammed a homer. In the sixth inning Lane and Martin of Otterbein each hit home runs with two men on base. Otterbein got 14 hits to Capital's 12.

CANTON, Mass.—Twin calves were born on James P. Skehan's farm recently for the second time in a month. Skehan says this is the first time in his 35 years' experience as a dairyman that twin calves have appeared twice in the same herd in so short a period.

That is why A&P has begun a Freshness Campaign that will guarantee the goodness and flavor of every perishable food sold in A&P stores. Common Pleas Entries

A petition asking for marshaling of liens has been filed in common pleas court by Jessie C. Simms of East Palestine against her former husband, Frank C. Simms, with Joseph Edwards of Youngstown being made a party defendant.
Mrs. Simms says in the petition that she obtained a judgment in common pleas court July 9, 1928, against Sims, which required him to pay the plaintiff $200 monthly, as long as Mrs. Simms remained unmarried, and also an order against Sims to pay $100 monthly to his daughter, Marjorie Simms, who has since married the latter payment to continue monthly until she was 25 years old. Her name is now Marjorie S. Aldrich.

Mrs. Simms has set up $2,100
due her under the alimony order and judgment, and interest from April 9, 1933. It is further declared that an automobile was levied upon, but that Edwards claims to have a chattel mortgage covering the machine. Edwards is asked to set up his interest in court.

ence features! You don't have to "guess" at anything—no fancy solutions—no clever answers—no "brain teasers." Everybody has an equal chance—anybody can win.
330 will be given away—one for each Kroger neighborhood store.

Beginning Friday, June 2nd, and until Saturday, July 29th, you will receive a "1-vote" coupon for each 25c purchase made at your Kroger store. The person trading at your Kroger store who turns in the greatest number of votes at the end of the contest wins the refrigerator. But that isn't all! The winner of each refrigerator qualifies for the grand prize—a complete General Electric Kitchen. And best of all—every person who turns in 25 votes (equal to $5.00 in trade) receives a Kroger Purchase Certificate good for $5 as provided towards the purchase of a new G-E Refrigerator or a G-E Electric Range or a G-E Electric Dishwasher at your General Electric retail sales outlet.

Start saving your "votes" at once—make up your mind NOW to win this General Electric Refrigerator. Ask your friends to trade at Kroger's too, and save their votes for you. Get everybody's help—this is too valuable a prize to lose! Sample details of the contest are furnished in pamphlet form at your Kroger neighborhood store.
Read them—then get busy and win!

After a careful survey of the refrigerator market we decided the prize in this great contest would be one of the most popular refrigerators in America . . . a General Electric Monitor Top.

This is the very latest model G-E with 4.7
cu. ft. food storage capacity and over 8 sq.
ft. of shelf space. It freezes more ice faster and uses less current. See it in your Kroger Store window. The cabinet is all-steel—sturdily constructed for lifetime use, and beautifully modern in appearance. Has acid and stain resisting all porcelain interior and baked Glyptal enamel exterior.

It's many convenience features include a new stainless-steel freezing chamber that cannot chip or rust—and the new G-E defroster that provides uninterrupted refrigeration while defrosting. The famous sealed-in-steel Monitor Top mechanism is Guaranteed 4-Years against failure by General Electric—world's largest electrical manufacturer.

The winner of the grand prize in the Kroger Store contest will receive a complete General Electric Kitchen, including a General Electric Refrigerator, General Electric Range, and General Electric Dishwasher.
It will be individually designed to fit the winner's home.

A General Electric Kitchen brings new freedom from kitchen tasks—new hours of leisure. It modernizes the home — saves time, saves steps and saves money. All drudgery is eliminated for your hands direct, instead of do. A snap of the switch and presto!—electric servants silently and automatically perform the tasks that now require hours each day. A General Electric Kitchen becomes the new "guest room of the home—a room where you will be proud to have friends congregate. It is cool, colorful, spotlessly clean, and marvelously efficient.

You may win this General Electric Kitchen! Go to your Kroger Store for details—start saving your votes NOW!

THE CHALLENGE OF LOVE
by WARWICK DEEPING

CHAPTER FIFTY-TWO

John Wolfe's coming was the coming of the general in command. Hospital and commissariat staffs stared more than seemed absolutely necessary. Jess was under fire, and was unconscious of the fact, her eyes looking towards Ursula Brandon, who was waiting for them by the terrace.

"I could not keep away, Mrs. Brandon; I heard you wanted help."

Ursula smiled at Jess, studying her as she smiled. It was the attitude of the woman towards the girl. "That is the spirit we want. Will you go over and help the others to cut out sheets?"

"I'll do anything you ask me to," "That's splendid."

Jess found herself kneeling under one of the cedars, and snipping away at a bale of calico with a pair of bright new scissors. But her eyes wandered away towards John Wolfe. He was standing talking to Ursula Brandon where the steps led up from the lawn to the terrace. The massed colors of the well-watered flowers in the borders raised a broad background of rose and of gold. Beyond stood the warm, red-walled house, mellow, stately, suggesting aloofness and some awe to Jess's eyes.

They were talking like intimate friends—those two. Ursula Brandon showed animation, fire, reflecting the glow of the man's virility. Jess had a sudden, queer, lost feeling at the heart. She sat back on her heels, watching, forgetting her scissors and the roll of white stuff before her. She discovered the desire that John Wolfe should leave Mrs. Ursula Brandon and come and talk to her, even if only for a moment.

Presently he came. Jess knelt there at his feet, not looking up, her dark lashes making shadows on her cheeks, her scissors busy.

"When are we to go to the hospital, John?"

"The hospital isn't in being yet."

"Has she done all this?"

"Mrs. Brandon? Yes. I never came across anyone with a better head for organization. She has thought of everything down to feeding-cups and safety pins. I must say I was astonished. To look at her you would not think such a woman would trouble."

Jess's head remained bowed.

A cynic could have amused himself by watching the remarkable unanimity with which the people of the upper middle-class decided that they needed a change of air. The "White Hart" coach and all the wagons in the town were kept busy, carrying the fugitives to Wannington station. The Wilke family was one of the first to leave, the young ladies pressing scented handkerchiefs to their noses, and old Wilks, the squirrel, nibbling at the daily paper. Miss Perfection was borne off, scattering "heart attacks" like hand-bills along the road. The Turrells went to Scotland. Johnson, the wine merchant, departed for Yarmouth, taking his daughters and his parrot with him, the bird perched in its cage on the top of the cab, shouting "Monte, Monte" outside Dr. Threadgold's windows. Many of the wealthier tradespeople discovered that it was the psychological moment for a holiday. Business languished, and was left to take care of itself.

Threadgold's assistant deserted him early in August. Mr. Talbot Tweedy being a hiring with "nerves". He smiled for a while on people with his yellow teeth, stumbled over doormats, readjusted his pince-nez that were always slipping, and then vanished out of Navestock. Threadgold had begun to be bewildered. His bewilderment increased as work thickened, but he continued to go bowling about in his carriage and popping in and out of doors. A man's intellect may fail him, but his manner may survive. Threadgold's manner was the product of years of affable pomposity. It took command of him in the crisis, carried him about, spoke for him, kept him moving. Threadgold was dazed, but his manner went on working, and persisted in uttering the same pompous platitudes.

The people in the river alleys were brutally ignorant and ignorantly stubborn. The sultrifying stupidity of the town threatened Wolfe's hospital scheme from the very first. The marquee and tents were pitched, the little improvised beds ready, the volunteers at their posts. The difficulty lay in getting the sick children. Stupid affection, sheer obstinacy, ignorant prejudice made many of the cottagers refuse to let the youngsters be taken away.

"You be wanting to cut 'em about. I know ye."

That was what one poor woman threw in John Wolfe's face.

Compassion made him patient. He and Robert Flemming went from house to house, arguing, pleading, scolding. Wolfe began to grow fiercer with some of the fools. Many of them would not let the children go, and would not feed them properly when they kept them. With the cooperation of some of the farmers, Wolfe had arranged to have fresh country milk distributed for the use of the sick. It was imperative that those who were ill should have no solid food. And again and again Wolfe caught them feeding the youngsters on such stuff as bacon and stewed cabbage.

Ursula Brandon was watching Jess tending a sick little boy in the marquee hospital.

"I think she is about the best nurse I have," Ursula told Dr. Wolfe.

"Plenty of pluck. I suppose, she eats and sleeps properly?"

"Yes, I see to that; I am very imperious."

"We should never have been able to manage this without you."

Wolfe saw Jess alone for a few minutes before he left.

"All right, Jess?"

"Yes, quite."

"Absolutely sure?"

"Shall I put my tongue out, John?"

He flipped her cheek.

"Be careful."

"Oh, I am very careful. It is just splendid here, and I get on so well with the children. Aren't those people in Navestock wretches?"

"Who?"

"The ignorant wretches who won't let their sick children be brought out here. I should like to go through Navestock with a whip."

Perhaps nothing shocked Navestock more than the deaths of old Hubbard, and Johnson, the butcher. For years these men had been part of the intimate life of the town; old Hubbard, with his round, lard-colored, mildly owl-wise face; Johnson, the beef-red bully, smacking his great hands together and bellowing with laughter. Their deaths were like the taking down of famous tavern signs. Hubbard died in his sleep; Johnson in the full wakefulness of blasphemous terror. Robert Flemming had looked grey and tired when he had come away from Johnson's bedside.

"That chap Wolfe will be pleased, darn him. I don't care. I've led a straight life, and I ain't been stingy. What have I got to die for, what have I got to die for? I don't want to go!"

Then whimpering, curses against Threadgold—"old mutton head"—"blasted, bodgering fool!"

Then, too, these slow-thinking and patient people began to realize that this pest might not have struck Navestock so fiercely, had the landlords chosen to do what the doctors had advised. Money, yes! It would have cost a deal of money! The talk in the ale-houses and at the doorways became cynical and bitter.

September brought rain. Dr. Wolfe, riding back over Tarling Moor with a storm racing, saw Ursula Brandon's hospital white as newly-washed linen spread out on a bank to dry. The sunlight shone on it, but even as Wolfe watched, the edge of a storm cloud covered the sun. A great hand might have flung a dark net over Navestock. The glamour went. A wind came over the moor. Rain began to fall.

The drops were rattling on the flapping canvas of the marquees and tents before Wolfe reached the hospital. Most of the children were asleep. In the big marquee two nurses were talking together in whispers.

"How are things getting on?"

"Very well in here, doctor. Miss Mascall is with Jennie Sanders in No. 3 tent."

The two nurses looked at each other, questioning.

"I don't think she is quite herself, doctor."

"Oh!"

"Of course she pretends. But three days ago—"

Wolfe went striding round the tent pegs with a word of thanks to the nurses. In No. 3 Jess was bending over a bed and settling an ice-bag against the shaven head of a child of seven. There was a listlessness about her movements, an apathy that could not be concealed.

Wolfe came to the doorway in time to see Jess step back from the bed with a little tragic gesture.

"Oh, bother my head."

Then she turned and saw him.

A kind of guilty flush went over her face, for there was something

Small Girl—Big Job

To this pretty 11-year-old Miss, Anita Carmen Pradillo, of New Orleans, La., fell the distinction of performing the official act that opened the first New Orleans to Chicago of the lakes to gulf barge service. Anita performed the ceremony, called the "Wedding of the Waters," with a bottle of water from Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River.

In John Wolfe's eyes that frightened her.

"Why, John! Do come and look; I think Jennie is going to pull through."

He came into the tent, studying her with the searching glance of a man who was afraid to see that for which he looked.

"You're not ill, Jess."

The sparkle had gone out of her. "It is only a headache. I don't mind so long as the child pulls through. Come and look at her, John."

Wolfe ignored the child on the bed. He went to Jess, and stood over her, intent almost to fierceness.

"Give me your hand. You have felt like this for some days?"

"Yes, John."

"Why didn't you tell me?"
